Facts About the Playgrounds. Editor The Washington Herald:

It has several times been suggested on the floor of the House that Congress should stay its hand, and allow the District to carry on the playgrounds, but Congress is the only means through which the District may receive money for any of its public purposes. The District has already expressed through its legal representatives, the Commissioners, its desire to bear its part of this expense for the good of the children, and asks that Congress shall join with it in this good
